The course is to provide criminal justice officers with an understanding of the unique issues veterans, active duty military personnel, and reserve members face when transitioning back to civilian life. This will help officers recognize that some veterans have emotional, physiological issues that may not be apparent at first glance, and therefore develop enhanced skills for de-escalating situations that are potentially far more volatile than usual because of these issues.

Students must pass a written end of course exam with a score of 80% or better
